

Public interest, peak oil and global warming

Posted by Heading Out on February 12, 2006 - 4:43pm

Topic: Miscellaneous

Tags: climate change, global warming, peak oil [list all tags]

Further to Halfin's comment on the life of this site, I thought I would revisit blogpulse and see how popular the topic has been since Prof G looked, back in July.

It seems as though, while a little more prevalent in the MSM, discussion otherwise has tailed off, as the lack of an evident problem may have caused the reduced interest. Unfortunately the problem itself has not gone away. Perhaps it will be interesting to come back and see the trend in another six months - if we are still here (grin).

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-Share Alike 3.0 United States License.