James Wolcott of Vanity Fair fame has a provocative piece today that begins by looking at the Richard Rainwater piece in Fortune (which, initially had a kind mention of TOD) and ends up discussing Rich Heinberg's case for impeaching the president because of dereliction of duty with regard to "ignoring the very real threat posed by Peak Oil." The integration of the two lines of logic is an interesting polemic.
