

<s>Two</s>Three Quickies: A Map and a Madman (and an Economist!)

Posted by Prof. Goose on June 28, 2006 - 5:07pm

Topic: Supply/Production

Tags: alternative energy stations, biodiesel, e85, peak oil, thomas friedman [list all tags]

First, I wanted to share with you this link at IFenergy which details how "MapMuse has recently introduced interactive mapping of biodiesel fuel stations and E85 fuel stations across the US. There are presently over 650 ethanol 85 fuel stations, and 350 biodiesel fuel stations located on the MapMuse maps." Worth a look.

Also, for you bittorrent fans, Friedman's recent show on the Discovery Channel is available as a .torrent here. (If you are looking for advice on how to get bittorrents, ask in the comments, I'm sure one of us enterprising souls will be happy to direct you towards Azureus or something.)

Update [2006-6-28 17:7:19 by Prof. Goose]: JDH's last three pieces should be read as well.

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-Share Alike 3.0 United States License.