

Oh that oil pipeline

Posted by Heading Out on June 20, 2005 - 9:11pm

Topic: Alternative energy

Well rumor has it that Fairbanks has a big celebration tomorrow to mark the land of the Midnight Sun (we're about 100 miles south of the Arctic Circle). Only thing is - you might note that it is rainy and misty. Didn't seem to bother the muskox, caribou or reindeer though.

Most of the time you can't find this - we had to search to find the little station with the souvenirs and this part of the exposed pipe, it goes underground about 100 yards north of where I stand, and that is why it is this close to the ground.

Oh that oil pipeline

Originally uploaded by Heading Out.

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-Share Alike 3.0 United States License.