

Livable Streets = Musical Streets

Posted by Glenn on June 22, 2007 - 9:00pm in The Oil Drum: Local

Topic: Sociology/Psychology

Tags: happiness, music, new york city, streets, sustainability [list all tags]

Yesterday was Make Music New York Day. I caught some of this near my office and it was just wonderful to have an outdoor concert at lunch with a cool breeze coming off the harbor. Streetfilms has put together an extraordinary 3 minutes of various music venues on the street.

Some great moments of street life activated by a little music. New York at it's best. Bookmark this video if you ever feel down or worry that happiness can't continue without a high energy consumption lifestyle. We make our own happiness - for ourselves and for others. Enjoy the summer weekend.

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-Share Alike 3.0 United States License.