

Olduvai 2008 movie

Posted by Luis de Sousa on March 1, 2008 - 11:30am in The Oil Drum: Europe

Topic: Alternative energy

Tags: alternative energy, movie, olduvai, peak coal, peak fossil fuel, peak natural gas, peak oil [list all tags]

As an addendum to the Olduvai 2008 post there's a movie available that digests the main ideas presented there.

This was an original idea of Nate Hagens and Chris Vernon to somehow broaden the TOD readership spectrum to people with busy schedules and/or short attention spans. This new Olduvai assessment seemed a good place to start, although in the future the objective is to have more concise and direct movies, targeted for people who are not so savvy on fossil fuel depletion.

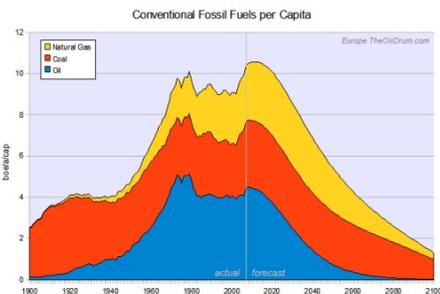

The budget was €0, so this piece of media is far from perfect, to which we ask for your understanding.

You can watch the movie using these links:

Google Video

YouTube \(part 1\)

YouTube \(part 2\)

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-Share Alike 3.0 United States License.