I want to heartily encourage all of our readers to sign up for their own account here on TOD. For one reason, it's nice to know who says what. But more importantly, if you log in, you can enjoy a great new feature that Super G just implemented: new comment notification. This feature tells you not only how many comments there are to a post, but how many of them are new to you...and in the thread, a handy little [new] tag appears next to the comments you haven't seen yet.

So get yourself an account today! Feel free to sign up pseudonymously—we don't care who you are in real life!
