

FTD: Raymond James on Peak Oil and the Oil Sands of Canada

Posted by Prof. Goose on August 25, 2005 - 10:05pm

Topic: Supply/Production

Very interesting catch tonight by Fatherof4 over at Flying Talking Donkey. (For those of you new to our site, go check out FTD. Fo4 is the father of the peak oil webring as well.)

Here's the link to a .pdf in his del.icio.us linkfest of an extensive Raymond James report (big .pdf warning, 138 pgs). It's very pro-oil sands of course...let's just call it "optimistic."

Lots of charts, graphs, and really interesting analyses. Worth looking at, especially if you want to see why the US will either be motivated to own Canada or will be Canada's bitch in a generation.

Just look at the maps of Alberta's oil sands...and the geology of oil sands section is interesting as well.

Update [2005-8-25 23:43:44 by Prof. Goose]: Big Gav has a post tearing apart oil shale at PE-Oz. Good stuff as always from BG.

Technorati Tags: peak oil, oil

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-Share Alike 3.0 United States License.