

Worthwhile Videos

Posted by Gail the Actuary on October 12, 2008 - 10:57am

Topic: Miscellaneous

Tags: brutus platform, julian darley, matthew simmons, original, peak oil, russia, video [list all tags]

What videos have you seen that you think others might be interested in? Here are a few I found:

From Peak Moment Television, this is Matt Simmons' 26 minute talk at the ASPO convention called, "Oil and Gas--The Next Meltdown:"

---

This is a 4:28 video I found of Julian Darley of the Post Carbon Institute talking about what Michigan should do about preparing for peak oil. It was an impromptu interview, done at the time of the ASPO conference.

This is a 6:20 video of Matt Simmons talking about what Michigan should do to prepare for peak oil. This was also an impromptu interview, done at the ASPO conference in Sacramento.

This is a video called "Oil Outlooks Clouds Russia's Economic Future" from www.russiatoday.com, talking about peak oil and peak gas. I couldn't find a way to embed it, but this is a link.

You may remember that I visited the Brutus oil platform in last November, and wrote a post about my trip. Another woman on the same trip, Margot Gerritsen, put together a 17 minute video documenting the trip. This is a link to her video.

In the comments, let us know if you have found other videos or radio programs that might be of interest to TOD readers. Also, if you have comments on the videos, feel free to share them.

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-Share Alike 3.0 United States License.