A couple months ago, I did a survey among The Oil Drum readership asking 24 questions. The main reason was to test out 'SurveyMonkey' (which seemed to work quite well). In addition to demographics, there were also questions relating to Peak Oil, Climate Change, and Likert scale questions concerning the future. I have not had time to properly analyze the data with any statistical rigor but wanted to share the raw numbers (unfiltered) with this community. They are at this link. Schedule permitting, we will run a different version of this poll/survey soon. I intend to then fuse the finding of the two studies into a post/paper. I will try and respond to a few requests for filtered data: (for example, are those with children more or less concerned about the future than the rest of sample, etc.)
