What advice do you have for new gardeners? Open thread

At this time of year, people are busy starting their gardens. If you live in a colder climate, your garden is not as far along as a garden of someone in a warmer climates.

If someone new to gardening were to ask what you have learned by trial and error, that might be helpful to others, what would you tell them?