Today, Participate.net launches its campaign for Syriana: Oil Change, the soon to be released "oil" movie with George Clooney and Matt Damon, has a community website/blog where actors, producers, guest bloggers and regular visitors can post and discuss things related to the subject of the movie.

As Mike from Treehugger suggests:

Participant Productions are doing good things and bringing important issues to the mainstream consciousness. I seriously encourage people to see their movies (and bring friends).

So, go over to check out Jamais' and Mike's work over there. Of course, don't forget to wave the TOD flag a bit too...
