

Well said...

Posted by Prof. Goose on May 3, 2005 - 7:59pm

In light of the comments on (the lack of) government involvement in the previous post, I point you to a good summary piece today by Dave Roberts (he and praktike (also of Liberals Against Terrorism), ah hell all of them over at Grist, are always worth a read).

The story? The post is basically a rundown of Roscoe Bartlett's efforts and candid conversations. It sounds like he's pretty much all alone on this one so far.

Money quote (from Bartlett):

When Bartlett is asked what his colleagues' reaction has been to his speeches, he says:

"They'd like to know more about it. It's not something that they even thought about before. Most people have assumed, I have no idea why you would assume that, that oil is forever."

Isn't it nice to know that our representative government has its finger on the pulse of America? You go, Roscoe!

(Also, I may or may not have a summary link fest this evening. I am in the midst of grading and other academic hells. It will be a slow posting week for me at best. PG)

Technorati Tags: peak oil, oil

---

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-Share Alike 3.0 United States License.