

Pictures from the Lower 9th Ward

Posted by Stuart Staniford on January 1, 2006 - 1:35pm

Topic: Environment/Sustainability

Tags: hurricane katrina, peak oil [list all tags]

Neighborhood in the lower 9th ward. This used to be a street of houses. Click picture to enlarge. Credit: Zoe Hare

Zoe got a tour of the lower 9th neighborhood from a local off-duty police officer. This was the poor area on the wrong side of the canal where the levees broke and let a huge flood in very fast. She let me borrow a few of her pictures. Apparently it went on like this for over a mile.

Click picture to enlarge. Credit: Zoe Hare

Click picture to enlarge. Credit: Zoe Hare

Click picture to enlarge. Credit: Zoe Hare

Click picture to enlarge. Credit: Zoe Hare

It's going to take a while to rebuild this.

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-Share Alike 3.0 United States License.

