

Thomas Friedman: "Green is the New Red, White, and Blue"

Posted by Prof. Goose on January 7, 2006 - 7:38pm

Topic: Policy/Politics

Tags: climate change, geo-green, thomas friedman [list all tags]

As Jamais Cascio over at WorldChanging (oops!) says: "Thomas Friedman in the New York Times [has been] calling for a "geo-green" agenda, making a move away from fossil fuels a national security issue. It's not because we think he's a brilliant writer so much as he's about as mainstream influential as they come; if Friedman is pushing this, it's going to be debated in the halls of power in Washington." I hope you're right, Jamais.

Anyway, Jamais points us to a blog that was nice enough to pull some of the quotes from a Friedman article from today's NYT (since it is behind the NYT pay fence), so I will point you there to get a taste. (link)

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-Share Alike 3.0 United States License.